new collection

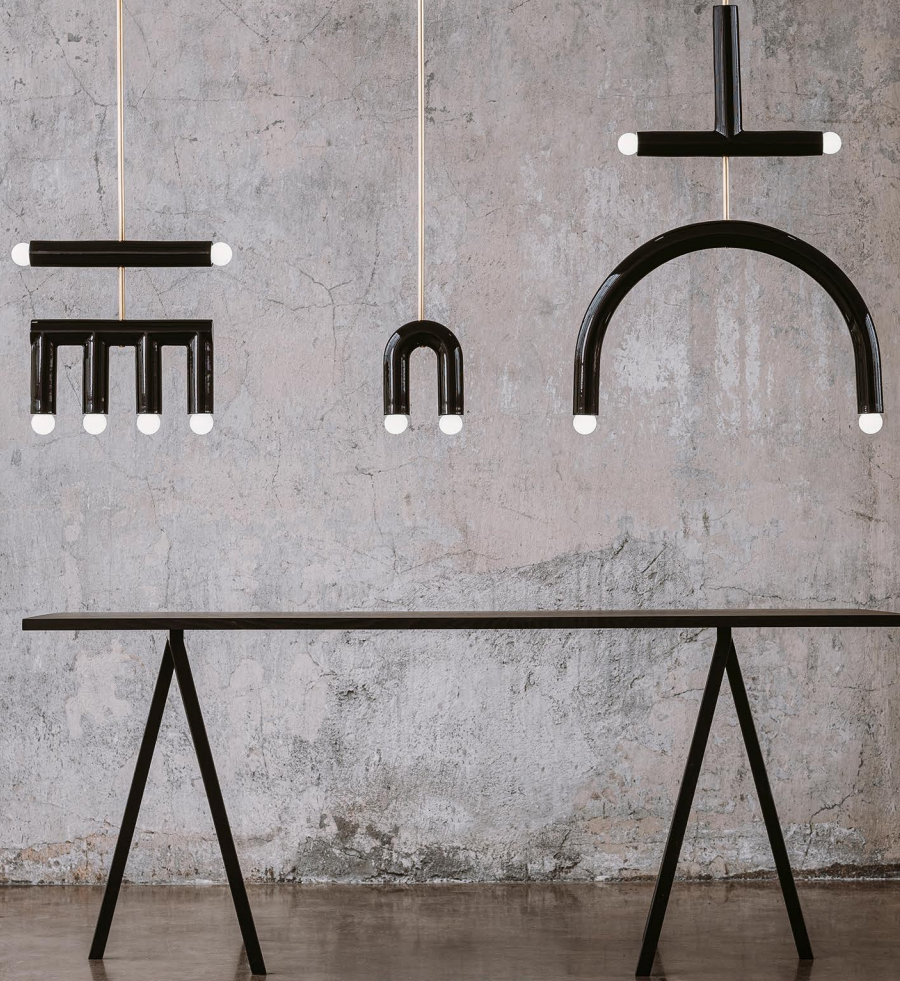

Calligraphic forms, bold colors, fine materials and craft techniques. The new TRN collection of Pani Jurek is a homage to the art of Jan Tarasin.

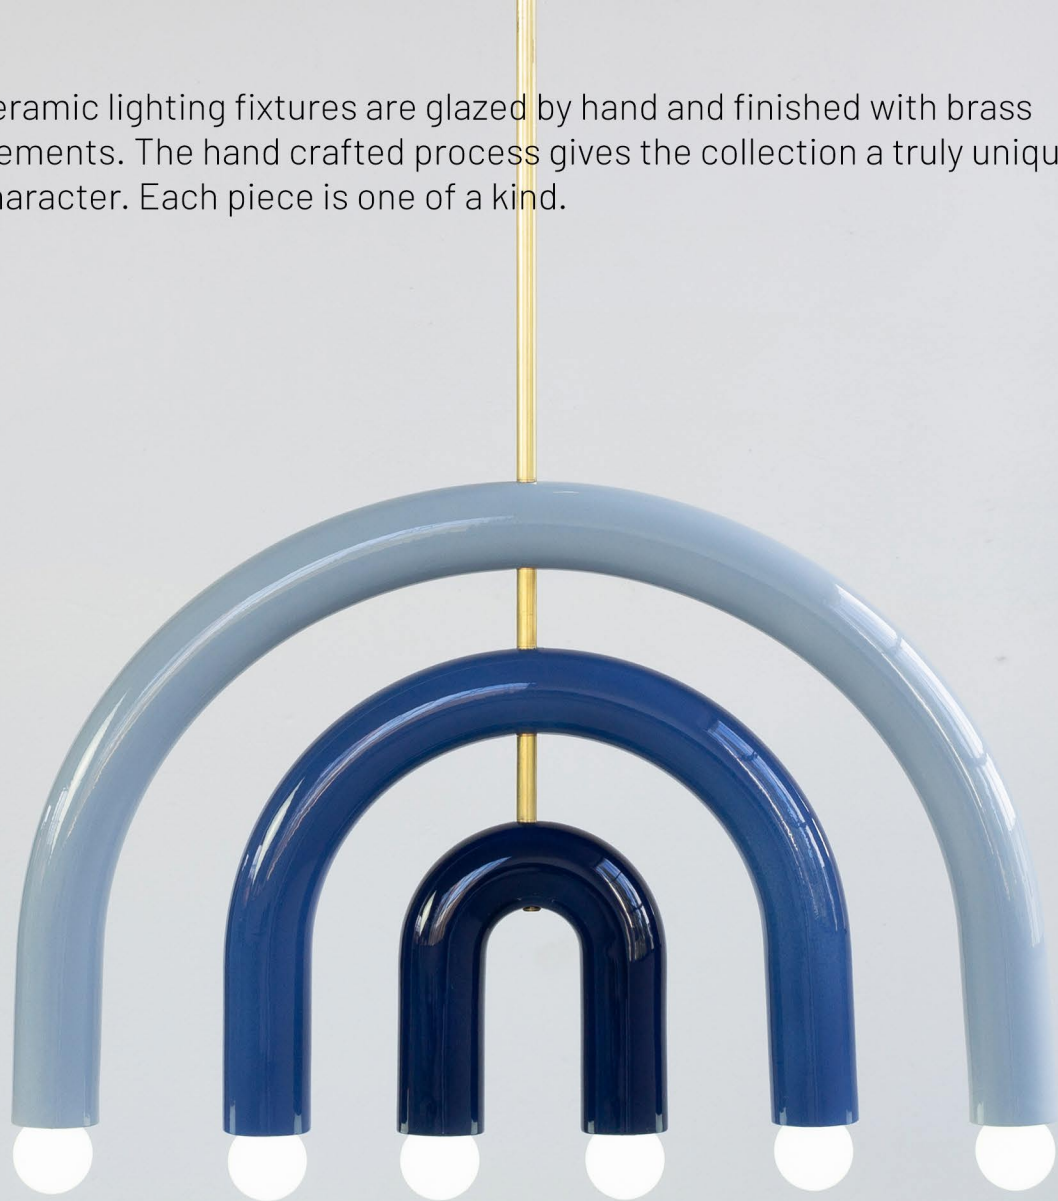

Three dimensional objects have a simple calligraphic form so they can play and talk together as if they were letters from a non-existent alphabet.

A fascination with Jan Tarasin paintings and graphics was a starting point for the creation of the whole collection. Tarasin was interested in the world of objects. He began with a realistic record of objects that he simplified and reduced until a system of abstract signs was formed. In her latest collection, Pani Jurek reverses this process, turning ideograms into things again.

Ceramic lighting fixtures are glazed by hand and finished with brass elements. The hand crafted process gives the collection a truly unique character. Each piece is one of a kind.

There are 5 models of side tables in the collection, 4 types of mirrors (3 sizes and one triple) and ceramic lighting fixtures, whose single elements can be arranged into the compositions.

The furniture is made in cooperation with Square Drop, preservative and bespoke furniture studio.

Hand crafted in solid ash wood, with traditional cabinet making techniques, the furniture is wood stained and covered with natural wax.

The collection is made for residential and commercial spaces. Objects can be arranged together like blocks of a puzzle, but, due to their sculptured look, they also suit perfectly as single accent pieces in a private apartment.
